

I oppose the proposal in front of the FCC on 6/2 to allow media companies to own more outlets in a given region. I believe this will reduce the local flavor of media and result in less diversity.

I also think this is a public health issue. When radion/tv stations are owned by a national group, they will not be able to effectively cover local issues and issue local advisories (tornado, watch out for missing persons, etc.).

Scott Rife